

Friday, October 10, 2003
9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Baron Valley Ranch, Resort & Casino
Lakeside, California

Name: _____
Org: _____
Address: _____
City/State/Zip: _____
Phone: _____
Email: _____

Early Registration Fee (until October 3): $250

Registration Fee after October 3: $300
(Registration fee includes materials and refreshments)

Method of Payment:

( ) Check - Made payable to ASU Foundation*

Credit Card # _____

Exp date _____

Authorized cardholder's signature _____

Complete and mail this form with your check and mail to:

ASU College of Law
Development Office
P. O. Box 877906
Tempe, AZ 85287-7906

*Due to the value of the benefits provided, this payment is not considered to be a charitable contribution. Funds will be deposited with the ASU Foundation, a separate, non-profit organization that exists to support ASU, and are earmarked for the ASU College of Law Indian Legal Program scholarship endowment.

AGENDA

History of Federal Indian Law
Robert Clinton
Professor of Law,
ASU College of Law

Contracting in Indian Country
Steve Heeley
Partner, Quarles & Brady Streich Lang
Adjunct Professor, ASU College of Law

Public Law 280
Carole Goldberg
Professor of Law,
UCLA College of Law

Civil Adjudicatory & Regulatory Jurisdiction
Rebecca Tsoisie
Lincoln Professor of Native American Law & Ethics and Executive Director of the Indian Legal Program,
ASU College of Law

Indian Gaming
Kevin Gover
Professor of Law,
ASU College of Law

Taxation in Indian Country
Mark Horvath
Sole Practitioner

Tribal Labor Law
Bradley Bledsoe Downes
Senior Associate
Dorsey & Whitney

INDIAN LAW 101

Learn from the experts!

A quick and concise survey of the issues in federal Indian law for everyone interested in learning more about this complex area.

Earn seven (7) credits of CLE for $250.

Date: Friday, October 10, 2003
Time: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Location: Barona Valley Ranch
Resort and Casino
Address: 1932 Wildcat Canyon
Road
Lakeside, California

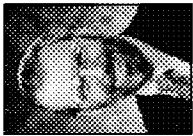

Sponsored by Arizona State University
College of Law's Indian Legal Program,
A California State Bar Approved
MCLE Provider.

All net proceeds will benefit the Indian Legal Program Scholarship Endowment

If you have questions, please call
Amanda Breaux at 480.965.6405 or e-mail amanda.breaux@asu.edu

To register on-line, go to [www.law.asu.edu/Programs/CLE/
IndianLaw101/](http://www.law.asu.edu/Programs/CLE/IndianLaw101/)

Robert N. Clinton
Professor of Law

B.A., University of Michigan
J.D., University of Chicago

After private practice in Chicago, Professor Clinton joined the faculty of the University of Iowa College of Law in 1973. In 1989 he was awarded the title of Wiley B. Rutledge Professor of Law. For the 2001-03 year, Clinton has been appointed Barry Goldwater Chair at ASU. He also serves as the Chief Justice of the Winnebago Supreme Court, and as Associate Justice of the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribal Court of Appeals and the Colorado River Indian Tribes Court of Appeals. Professor Clinton teaches and writes extensively about tribal law and Native American history, and is considered a leading authority on federal Indian law. His publications include numerous articles on federal Indian law and policy, constitutional law, and federal jurisdiction, and he is the co-author of casebooks on Indian law and federal courts, and The Handbook of Federal Indian Law.

Steve Heeley
Partner

Quarles & Brady Streich Lang, PLLC

B.A., Dartmouth College
J.D., Boalt Hall School of Law, U.C. Berkeley

Steve Heeley is the Chair of the Federal Indian Law and Gaming Practice Group at the law firm of Quarles Brady Streich Lang. He focuses in the areas of Federal Indian Law, Economic Development, Indian Gaming Practice, and Federal and State Government Relations. His experience includes representing Indian tribal governments in water rights settlements, tribal code development, gaming negotiations, environmental regulatory matters, and commercial transactions. Heeley also represents Indian tribal governments in negotiating resort management agreements, business leases, operating agreements, financing agreements, and construction agreements. Heeley has over seven years of legislative experience working in the U.S. Senate and in the U.S. House of Representatives on Federal Indian policy. Congressional policy work included drafting significant pieces of Federal Indian legislation: The Native American Grave Protection and Repatriation Act, the Indian Environmental General Assistance Program, the Indian Lands Open Dumps Clean Up Act, the Indian Tribal Justice Act, the Indian Child Protection and Family Violence Prevention Act, the Indian Energy Policy Act, the American Indian Agricultural Resource Management Act, the Indian Dam Safety Act, the Indian Law Enforcement Reform Act, and Amendments to the Indian Health Care Improvement Act. Representing Indian tribal governments in developing various tribal codes and ordinances including environmental quality codes, tax codes, labor and employment ordinances, and law and order codes.

Carole Goldberg
Professor of Law and Director, Joint Degree Program in Law and American Indian Studies,
UCLA School of Law

B.A., Smith College; J.D., Stanford Law School

Carole Goldberg is Professor of Law and Director of the Joint Degree Program in Law and American Indian Studies at UCLA School of Law, where she also serves as faculty chair for the Native Nations Law and Policy Center. A member of the UCLA faculty since 1972, she teaches Federal Indian Law and Tribal Legal Systems, and founded UCLA's Tribal Legal Development Clinic. Along with ASU Professors Robert Clinton and Rebecca Tsosie, she is author of American Indian Law: Native Nations and the Federal System (Matthew Bender, forthcoming 2003), one of the two leading casebooks in the field of Federal Indian Law. She was co-editor and co-author of the 1982 edition of Felix Cohen's Handbook of Federal Indian Law, and serves on the Executive Committee that is producing the next edition of that important treatise. She has written widely on the topic of Public Law 280, including Planting Tail Feathers: Tribal Survival and Public Law 280 (UCLA American Indian Studies Center 1997), as well as on an array of other subjects including the Indian Child Welfare Act, Indian preference, and tribal constitutions.

Kevin Gover
Professor of Law

J.D., University of New Mexico School of Law
A.B., Public and International Affairs,
Princeton University

Kevin Gover is a member of the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma. After graduating from Princeton, where he majored in Public and International Affairs, Professor Gover worked as a specialist for the American Indian Policy Review Commission, a research group chartered by Congress to study a wide range of issues important to Native Americans. Private practice followed, first with a large firm in Washington, DC and then, forming a firm in New Mexico with two other highly regarded Indian Lawyers. The firm grew into one of the largest Indian owned law firms in the country. Gover served as Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Indian Affairs under Interior Secretary and former Arizona Governor, Bruce Babbitt, from 1996-2001. As Assistant Secretary he concentrated on upgrading Indian law enforcement, rebuilding decrepit Indian schools, reforming trust services and overhauling the Bureau of Indian Affairs' management system. His reform efforts coupled with an eloquent and moving apology to the nation's Indian Communities for the wrongs done to them by the Bureau of Indian Affairs in the past, on the occasion of the 175th anniversary of the Bureau's founding, won him wide approval in Indian country and Congressional praise. Professor Gover comes to the College of Law from Steptoe and Johnson, a national law firm with offices in Washington, DC and Phoenix, where he headed the Indian Practice Group.

Rebecca Tsosie
Lincoln Professor of Native American
Law & Ethics & Exec. Director,
Indian Legal Program

B.A., J.D., University of California at Los Angeles

Rebecca Tsosie is Professor of Law at Arizona State University, where she also serves as the Executive Director of ASU's Indian Legal Program. She serves as a Supreme Court Justice for Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation. She was appointed as the Lincoln Professor of Native American Law and Ethics in 2001. She joined the faculty of the ASU College of Law in 1993, after practicing with the law firm of Brown & Bain. Ms. Tsosie graduated from UCLA School of Law in 1990, and she clerked for then Vice-Chief Justice Stanley G. Feldman before joining Brown & Bain. Ms. Tsosie teaches in the areas of Indian law and Property, and she is the author of several articles dealing with cultural resources, environmental policy, and cultural pluralism. She is the co-author of a federal Indian law casebook entitled: American Indian Law: Native Nations and the Federal System. She is admitted to practice in Arizona and California. She is the recipient of the American Bar Association's "2002 Spirit of Excellence Award."

Bradley Bledsoe Downes, Associate
Dorsey & Whitney, LLP

B.A., U.C. Los Angeles
J.D., Arizona State University

Bradley Bledsoe Downes is an associate in the Southern California office of Dorsey & Whitney LLP, an international, full service law firm. Mr. Downes represents tribal governments, tribal businesses, and entities doing business with tribes across the country in connection with tribal government gaming, litigation, economic development and other activities, employment and labor law, contractual and regulatory matters, and federal and state relations, among others. Mr. Downes has presented at numerous workshops and conferences. Prior to joining Dorsey, Mr. Downes served as in-house counsel to the Hoopa Valley Tribe in northern California.

Mark Horvath, Sole Practitioner

B.S., J.D., Arizona State University

Mark Horvath has been in private practice since 1996 with a practice that concentrates on Native American (Indian) law. His practice has focused on representing tribal governments and their departments and enterprises including, among others matters, gaming, housing, employment, general business, employment, tax and construction. He has represented the Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation since 1994. Prior to private practice, he was the in-house Tribal Attorney for the Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation from 1994 to 1996 and worked as a staff attorney for Four Rivers Indian Legal Services from 1992 to 1994.